THE DUAL DIPLOMA PROGRAM

The Balboa School Dual Diploma Program is uniquely designed to provide high school students greater opportunities for developing the language and academic skills necessary for international college acceptance. Balboa School, together with cooperating schools abroad, allows its international high school students to register with a program offering a dual-country education. Students must meet the academic requirements to receive a diploma from each school, and will receive two diplomas recognized by the government of each country. The diploma received is recognized by all universities in the U.S. Highlights include:

Allowing international students to receive an optimal American education at a lower cost than would be required for international students to leave home to live and study in the United States.

Experiencing American quality of education in their home school.

Improving levels of English.

Earning a U.S. diploma.

A unique perspective on American culture by providing a globalized vision.

Designed to work within the student's current high school program.

The high school English and history programs are designed to integrate with college preparation for the United States or other English-speaking countries.

All courses are conducted using American high school textbooks.

Students' grades are evaluated using the most advanced grading and student evaluation system, ensuring that all students are assessed in the best way possible.

Successfully helps high school students attend their dream university in the U.S.

Balboa School and Aston Educational Group provide dual diploma schools with an excellent support team.

The curriculum is designed to fit within each school's requirements.
